Hero (hee-ro) noun, plural Heroes – a person who, in the opinion of others, has special achievements, abilities or personal qualities and is regarded as a role model.

Miles Deagle
Corporate

Miles Deagle has been a pillar at Carpenter's corporate office since 1984. He was one of the first employees hired when Carpenter moved to the current location of our corporate offices, and he has seen the company change and transform in many ways. Miles brought a sense of consistency and dedication to the corporate office that is admirable and that reflects the company's values. As Miles steps into retirement, we want to extend our gratitude for all he has done for the company. Thank you, Miles. We wish you many years of happiness and good health in retirement!

Paul Kent
Calgary

Paul Kent is a great example of high-quality leadership at Carpenter. Whether it is through mentoring, coaching, or setting the example, he inspires positive performance and develops a culture of continuous improvement. At all levels, Paul develops and maintains lines of communication with employees and is able to identify each person's unique contributions. He attends to the individual needs of his employees, and every manager who has reported to Paul has been grateful for the coaching and experience they received under his leadership. Thank you, Paul!

Lucy Wilkins
Corporate

Lucy Wilkins has been with Carpenter's corporate office for nearly 13 years. She has worn many hats, but one thing has remained true: Lucy takes exceptional pride in her work, never forgetting to "dot an I" or "cross a T." Lucy is always willing to help others despite juggling many large projects in her roles of Corporate HR Administrator and Executive Admin to our CEO. She is knowledgeable and dedicated, and she never misses a deadline. We are grateful to have Lucy on the Carpenter team. Thank you, Lucy!
